Conservatives Organize But No Candidate Elected

Meeting of District Conservativeswas Largely Attended, Although Candidate was not Elected for Constituency.

Successful Mass Meeting Held

Dr. J. G. Middlemass Elected President, Lloydminster Man in Office of Vice-President and P. W. Deveson as Secretary.

Last Thursday was a most interesting day for the Conservatives of the town and district who gathered here to attend the organization and public mass meetings, called by the president of the federal electoral district, Mr. O. Bush. From the fact that Wainwright was to become the seat of the central organization, a very large number convened from the outlying districts. Lloydminster was not largely represented, although several conservatives from that part of the constituency were present.

In the afternoon, the district association was organized, with the result that Wainwright was given the presidency in the person of Dr. J. G. Middlemass, while R. E. Miller of Lloydminster was chosen as the vice-president. P. W. Deveson of this town was elected secretary-treasurer, while a strong executive was selected from the party supporters in the constituency. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Bush, who explained his object for calling the meeting in a short speech. Mr. George B. Campbell of Wetaskiwin and Mr. J. D. Hyndman of Edmonton were also present. Although he was slated to appear, Mr. F. A. Morrison was unavoidably detained in Vegreville.

The mass meeting in the evening was largely attended and a most attentive ear was given to the respective speakers. The first speaker, Mr. George B. Campbell, on rising to address the meeting, dealt briefly with the recent Dominion elections and thanked his many supporters at this point. The people of the East did not know against what odds the electors of the West were compelled to fight. Numerous office holders and farmers proving up on their homesteads were forced in many cases to vote against their will and support the Liberal party. He referred to the bye-elections in the South as a triumph for Conservatism and was confident that the result would have been the same were the election held in every constituency. He contended that the people must now become familiar with provincial politics and when this happened there would be no doubt as to what conclusion they would arrive at. He thought that the present financial condition of the province was a most burning question. Proving this, he said Premier Sifton had said that Alberta's debt was about $6,000,000, while he had admitted in the recent bye-elections that it was in excess of $9,000,000.

TAX RATE HAS BEEN FIXED AT 10 MILLS

At the council meeting on Friday evening last, the tax rate for the year was struck and, from the healthy state of the town's finances, ten mills was decided upon as the prevailing general rate, while the school rate was struck at five mills on the dollar.

The assessment list, which was made out by Town Assessor R. A. Snyder several months ago, contains upwards of eight hundred names. Notices of taxes have already been mailed by the Town secretary, H. V. Fieldhouse.

LOCAL COUPLE END ROMANCE IN HAPPY MISSION

After an interesting romance, extending over a period of a year or more, and originating in the town, Dr. J. G. Middlemass and Miss Tilly Smith left here for Edmonton on Monday on a most happy mission. It is reported that they were married in the Capital and have already started on their honeymoon trip to Winnipeg, Chicago and New York.

The many friends of the popular couple will join with the STAR in wishing them many years of happiness. They will return here in the course of a month.

Dr. Liddle of Irma is here relieving Dr. Middlemass in his absence.

The recent general election in Canada will cost the country upwards of a million dollars. Although complete returns are not yet in, the total cost will in all probability be around this figure.

Board of Trade Banquet Brought Citizens Together in Harmony and Good Fellowship

Outcome of Affair Surpassed all Expectations --- Members Addressed by Secretary Fisher of Edmonton Board of Trade --- Citizens Unanimous in their Determination to Push Wainwright to the Forefront.

LOCAL BOARD GETS VALUABLE HINTS ON PUBLICITY

Judging from the spirit displayed at the Board of Trade banquet last night, there is an excess amount of enthusiasm and optimism among the citizens and businessmen that will eventually come to the surface if the proper means are employed.

Never in the history of the town has such a representative gathering of the citizens been held. With few exceptions, every businessman was there for one purpose—to further the interests of the town, where they have and expect to make their place of liklihood. Businessman mingled with businessman and exchanged suggestions that, if acted upon, will redound to the best interests of the town and surrounding community.

Previous to the holding of the affair, the scheme did not entirely meet with unanimous support, as it was feared that [illegible] that these individuals have agreed that they were wrong in their opinion. Each and every merchant and businessman is now thoroughly convinced that in order to build up the town as they would have it, the united effort of a phalanx of shoulders must be placed to the wheel and the progress of the town shoved to the forefront.

A word, perhaps should be said of the elaborate and bountiful banquet that was resultant from the efforts of the proprietor of the Wainwright Hotel, where the function was held. Without any doubt, the numerous courses on the menu were most creditable to he, who managed the affair and saw to it that it was successful.

After full justice had been done to the bountiful repast, President Lally of the Board of Trade explained the object of the banquet in a neat address that was received with much applause. He stated that the Board had wished to bring together the business men and have their suggestions on matters, relative to the work of the Board of Trade. To this end the presence of the Secretary of the Edmonton Board had been fortunately secured.

Following the usual preliminary toasts, that to "Our Guests" was heartily introduced and replied to by Mr. F. W. Fisher of the Edmonton Board of Trade. On rising to propose the toast, Secretary H.C. King reviewed the work of the local organization from its inception in 1908 and stated that he was pleased to see what manifold results it had attained. The evidence of the evening was sufficient. Mr. Fisher had been asked to attend the banquet and he was confident that [illegible] would be advanced, that would assist the local members.

It was a matter of great pleasure for him, said Mr. Fisher to be present and he thought that a great compliment had been paid to the Edmonton Board. He had learned many things through experience and was convinced that there was no question as to how much good a live board of trade could do. In small communities it was the sole means by which business men got together, and in many ways could be of great value if given the proper support. A general tendancy, however, was to sit back and let others do the work and if not done satisfactorily to grouch and find fault.

Mr. Fisher explained where the fields of the ordinary Board of Trade were boundless. He took it that Wainwright did not need new businessmen at present but did desire more people. This could be done in several ways. Boosting was a good means to employ. He thought that the people of Wainwright should boost for Western Canada, Central Alberta and for Wainwright,—first, last and all the time. This did not mean "hot air"—the country didn't need that—nothing was gained by overstating facts. As for WAINWRIGHT, HE DID NOT BELIEVE THAT THERE WAS ANY REASON FOR MISREPRESENTING IT.

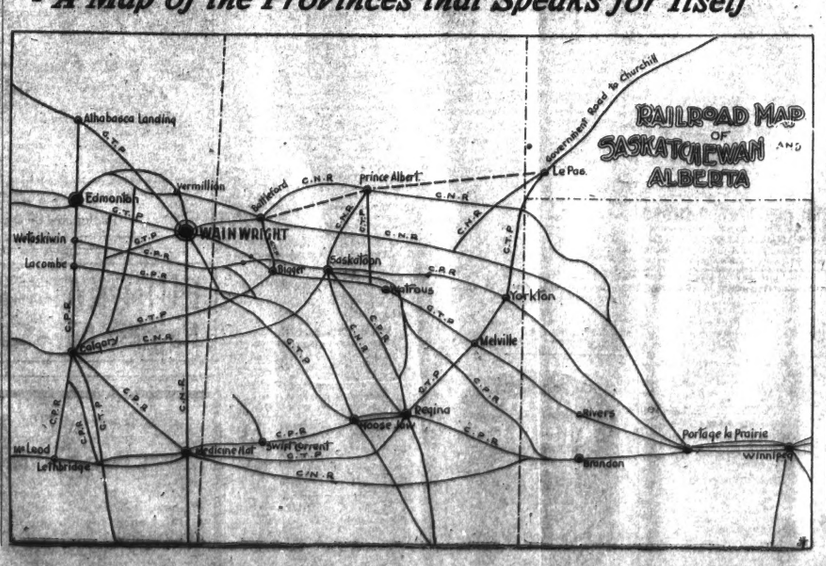

In the position he filled as secretary of the Edmonton Board of Trade, he received numerous enquiries about the country, and during the past seven months had received no less than 3,000 communications. These had been answered individually and he thought it was a good thing to follow. "You cannot interest a man in any particular locality," said he "unless you show him that you are interested in him."

Mr. Fisher explained the object of the Central Alberta Development League and thought that more could be accomplished in this than by working individually. It is to be regretted that space does not afford of a more lengthy account of Mr. Fisher's address but it is certain that if his numerous suggestions are acted upon, the time is not far distant when Wainwright will be broader and better.

After Mr. Fisher had finished, several of the local business men were called upon to reply to various toasts. Included in these were, "The Old Timers", replied to by Mr. J. H. Dawson, "The Town Council," replied to by Mr. W. B. Crawford. Messrs. W. J. Musson, S. E. James, Geo. Richardson, W. Small, P. E. Ross and V. E. Graham were also listened to with much pleasure.

When the banquet was brought to an end at 1.30, the opinion was prevalent that the Wainwright Board of Trade had passed another mile stone in its history.

- A Map of the Provinces that Speaks for Itself

Four Lines of Railway Into Here are Assured

Assurance Given that Wainwright will Get Three More Lines of Railway in the Next Year to Important Points

Information of Relialbe Nature

Duty of Board of Trade to Show that the Country Needs As Many Railways as Can be Constructed for Trade Purposes.

There is scarcely any doubt but that in the next year, Wainwright will become a more important railway centre that it is even at present. Enough has already been assured to convince us that both the C. N. R. and the G. T. P. intend making developments that will eventually make the town one of the most important in the West. Although at this time it is problematic as to the C. P. R. entering with the others, every indication points to the fact that they will eventually tap this portion of the province also.

In other columns, the railway map of Saskatchewan and Alberta goes to show that marked developments are planned by both the C. N. and the Grand Trunk railways.

During the past, the latter railway company has come in for a great deal of criticism, due to the fact that the town lost the Calgary branch and the line from Battleford was more or less in doubt. Statements have been made by the officials of this road to the effect that further announcements were forthcoming and that the town will benefit in a great many other ways in regard to railways. This has now been proven with the assurance of the Battleford line and the strong indication that the branch will continue on to Calgary, tapping the branch line to that point from Edmonton at the newly formed town of Mirror.

Regarding the Canadian Northern line from Vermilion there is hardly any doubt but that it will pass through Wainwright. The charter calls for a direct route from Vermilion to Medicine Hat in a straight southerly direction. From the map, it is certain that the road could not help but strike here.

The line from Moose Jaw, part of which has already been constructed, is in a direct line to Wainwright and the probability is that it will continue on to Athabaska Landing, thus tapping the Alberta and Great Waterways railway and opening up the rich and fertile lands in the intervening country.

Another line has been started out of Swift Current and is in a direction that points to the fact that Wainwright will be the terminal. In view of the fact that the C. P. R. has not as yet entered the northern portion of the province, there is every liklihood that Wainwright will be a favoured point.

As to those, who have been suspicious of the fact as to whether or not the town will receive other lines of railway, the assurance is given that, like other divisional points on the

LARGE CREW OF MEN ON RINK ERECTION

Work on the construction of the local rink is progressing at a most favourable rate, the mild weather of the past week having aided materially in placing the foundation for the structure. A large crew of men are at work, including several of the G. T. P. machinists who are out on strike.

Although it is impossible to make an accurate estimate as to when the building will be completed, it is stated that if the work progresses in the same manner as it has up to the present, the sides should be closed in by Christmas.

COMMISSIONER DOUGLAS HERE ON INSPECTION

Visiting the town and his interests here on a periodical trip of inspection, Mr. Howard Douglas, Commission of Dominion Parks, was here on Monday and Tuesday.

Although his visit was of short duration, Mr. Douglas figured in several interviews, other than that given to THE STAR. In the latter respect, Mr. Douglas gave out information that was most pleasing to hear, and was along the line of his work in connection with the buffalo in the local reserve.

He was delighted to see that Superintendent Ellis was looking after his work in such a satisfactory manner. The buffalo, during the past year had increased at a rate of eighty per cent in comparison to the females, while the death rate had been one-fourth of one per cent., pro rata on the whole herd.

Mr. Douglas, when asked if there was any truth in the report that the park was to be moved from here, stated that it was the first he had heard of it.

The Ladies Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church will hold a sale on the afternoons of Friday and Saturday, Nov. 24th and 25th, in the room next door to the post office. Come and get some Xmas. gifts. Refreshments will be served also.

Much interest is being taken in the proposed ball and dance to be given by the local G. T. P. boilermakers and machinists on December 1st. The boys are determined to make the affair a success and the citizens should display to no small degree their interest in their welfare.

Don't fail to hear the Dixie Jubilee entertainers in the Auditorium Thursday evening.

C. P. R. in the southern part of Alberta, this point will also become of importance as a railway centre. In practically a new section of the West, where immense possibilities are offered for agricultural enterprises, there is no reason to believe that the case will be otherwise. From the experience of other divisional points, it would appear obvious that the railways of Canada will likewise tap a country where the assurance is given that lines of railway will flourish as well as in those already opened up.

"I REMEMBER"

"I remember," said Geo. H. Measham, an old-time Winnipegger, "I was living on my homestead at Abernethy, near Qu'Appelle, in 1885, when the File Hill Indians, two or three hundred strong, marched down from their reserve and camped near Fort Qu'Appelle with the Chief Star Blanket at their head.

"Every woman, remembering the stories that had been told of the Minnesota massacres committed by the Indians a few years before, was horrified at the prospect, and it was with great misgiving that the men on these homesteads agreed to answer the call of the government to provide horses and wagons for the transport service of General Middleton's forces, then on their way to Batoche. The Indians hung around for some time and watched operations, not knowing just how far they could go, and perhaps that Reil and Dumont would win out in the uprising. But when the 91st Regiment arrived these Indians, who had swooped down in such great haste looking for trouble, vanished like the snow before the sun. The Chief and other big men of the tribe were afterwards arrested by the Northwest Mounted Police and jailed for a while.

"I remember being at Humboldt, then a little telegraph station, chatting with the man in charge of the government supplies, when a dashing looking young horseman drew rein at the door and said he would go no farther that night. We were glad of a chance to talk with a stranger, and, after refreshments, we and some others sat down and played cards until nearly dawn, and we found our companion the jolliest sort of fellow; he told us after the hours had sped by and we had enjoyed ourselves in the most unconventional way, that he was aid-de-camp to General Middleton, young Lord Minto, afterwards Governor-General of Canada.

"I remember one instance in my experience on the transport at Salt Plains when we struck an alkali slough, and it took us thirty hours to get ten loads two hundred yards. We remove all our clothing except our shirts and boots; put two teams of horses to the wagons and dragged until we got hopelessly stuck in the mud, and then, in desperation, carried the loads on our backs across the slough, and even had to take the wagons to pieces. No one can credit this thing being done, but there are men in Winnipeg today enjoying all the comforts of money and modern luxury, will, I am sure, corroborate my statement that nothing in the world can hold like an alkali bog.

"I remember at the close of the rebellion I was camped at the Upper Fishing Lake, Qu'Appelle, where there were many Indians and half-breeds also camped. One old Metis and a pretty half-breed girl were sitting apart from the rest, over a half burned fire, and the young girl was crying. I was young, and, attracted by the wistful face of the young girl, I asked what was the matter, and learned that the weeping venus of the Forest was Chief Star Blanket's wife, and the Chief had been arrested that morning by the Red Coats. I explained to the weeping wife that the Chief would come to no harm, which seemed to comfort her and stopped crying and talked of the prospects of seeing her warrior husband again. Nearly a year and a half afterwards I met this little girl wife at one of the Hudson's Bay posts, and she rushed up to me to say that I had told her the truth and that her husband was home again a 'good man now,' and that his people were bad, and that he loved the red coats.

"I remember the dry years of '86 and '87, when a plague of gophers and continuous dry weather wrecked the wheat fields of the west to such a nextent that for milesaround Qu' Appelle the fields were as barren as a floor, and we were all glad of a chance to get back to Manitoba, where there was a chance of a steady job. Those districts so seriously afflicted during those two years are among the most productive and prosperous in the west.

"The old-times are full of happy memories to all of us old timers; the nights spent with the sky for a tent and the stars for lights; the great stretches of silent plains; the dark depths of the great forests are, in more senses than one, getting farther back—farther back. But the present is full of hope, and I feel proud that with plough and axe and pen I have done a little for our glorious golden west."

RED TAPE IN GERMANY

A Railway Ticket, A Controversy and a Delayed Train.

In an account of the Duchy of Teck and its inhabitants by the Rev. S. Baring-Gould, an amusing experience is thus described by the author:

"We are wont, we Englishmen, to grumble at red tapism, but with us it does not go beyond the government offices. In Germany it is everywhere. I had an instance of it between Ober Lennington and Owen. I had asked at the former place for a third class ticket to Owen and had stepped into a third class carriage. On these branch lines nearly everyone travels fourth. I counted twelve compartments fourth, nine third and three second. There was no first class compartment. Before reaching the next station—in fact one mile from Ober Lennington — the inspector came round.

"Hah, you have a fourth class ticket and are in a third class compartment! The fine is 6 marks.'

"I explained and offered at once to pass into an inferior carriage or pay the difference.

"That will not do. You have infringed the law and must pay six marks.'

"I get out at Owen and will explain matters to the station master.

"I did so.

"'The fine is 6 marks,' said this latter peremptorily.

"But," said I, "I demanded a third class ticket and was given one for which I did not ask. This was an oversight of the clerk.'

"'You should have examined your ticket.'

"The train was delayed five minutes while the matter was being threshed out on the platform, the travellers cranning their necks out of the windows of their respective carriages, looking on and listening with lively interest. At last reluctantly the station master yielded. I must pay the difference.

"'What is it?'

"'One penny."'

THE SCIENCE OF CRIME

Misdeeds Committed and Criminals Detected by Modern Invention

Police routine work, the walking of beats, the direction of traffic, the quelling of strike riots—these activities, avers Ainsworth Mitchell, a British authority on the investigation of crime will never again evolve the skilled detective. Time was when a policeman became a detective through his experience in the station house.

Today the investigation of crime and its methods must enter the detective service by another door—that of applied science. That is to say, the criminal in our age becomes more and more a scientist. The swindler and the murderer are proving themselves psychologists of power, chemists of great knowledge, electricians of genius. The great detective must meet the great criminal upon a plane of intellectual equality. He fails to do that nowadays, and this circumstance accounts for the relatively large amount of undetected and mysterious crimes.

Let us consider, for instance, the crime of murder. The general public have little idea of the number of murders that pass undetected owing to the chemical expertness revealed in disposing of the body of the victim. This is the scientific problem involved in all murder. The bungling murderer does not know how to dispose of the body of his victim, whereas the scientific criminal can do so.

With what increasing advantage and success the weapons forged by scientific research can be utilized in the war of society upon the criminal has been shown in various recent trials. Of all modern agencies electricity, says Mr. Mitchell, is one of the most effective, if not for detecting, at least for capturing the criminal. The man in the street is not quick at grasping the possibilities of a novel invention. At first it is popularly regarded as a new toy, a matter of amazement and of amusement, but of no moment in the practical affairs of men. So it was in our own day with the telephone, the phonograph, the biograph, the miracle of the X-ray, of radium and of wireless telegraphy. A great invention must prove itself and so live. Still we find it hard to believe that the utility of the telegraph was once in such grave doubt that even when it transmitted messages with speed over hundreds of miles the public could not take it seriously. Not until the telegraph had shown its utility in the capture of criminals did it acquire any reputation with public men as a useful invention instead of a trifling toy. Prior to that time the invention had been little better than a failure from a commercial point of view.

The telegraph has learned a lot about detective work since that time. It has dabbled in photography, and is now able not merely to describe but to depict a fugitive criminal. The last word (so far, at any rate) on this subject appears to be the telectograph invented by Thomas Baker, which, says Mr. Mitchell, "may also be used with wireless installation for the transmission of simple pictures or diagrams and by this way it would be easy for a ship at sea to send or to receive portraits." Indeed, a picture of the late King Edward was actually transmitted in this manner.

In every department of crime nowadays science seems to have lent a hand to make easy the work of the criminal. This circumstance greatly discourages the layman who does not realize that were the detective also an applied scientist the forger, the thief and the murderer would be quickly apprehended. The criminal's own finger prints, as everyone knows, are an infallible means of identification, but the retort and the microscope of the analyst are equally fatal to the adepts in the higher and more scientific classes of crime.

In the old days the murderer caught redhanded could safely deny the bloodstain was human. The microscope was unable to contradict him. By a method recently discovered the analyst examining the minutest stain of blood, dry and scarcely discernible to the naked eye, on the garment of a suspect can tell to a certainty the species of animal in the veins of which it originally flowed. There is but one exception to this rule. The blood of the anthropoid ape gives the same reaction as human blood. "One might fancy the spirit of Darwin rejoicing in this singular confirmation of his theories," Mr. Mitchell says.

The cautious murderer who resorts to the subtle agency of poison has even more reason to dread the analyst with his test tube and his microscope, than has his brother in crime who adopts the cruder method of bone breaking and blood letting. On this head it is noteworthy that a deal of nonsense, from a scientific point of view, has been written by historians about Caesar Borgia and his sister. Their poisons were so subtle and so deadly that the loss of their secret is described as a blessing to mankind. The modern poisoner has fluid, powder and perfume far more subtle and deadlier at his disposal, yet among them are none that could elude the scrutiny of modern science.

Under the pitiless eye of the microscope the most skillful and delicate handiwork of the forger is of no avail. Does he trace the forgery over pencil, the microscope shows the pencil mark along the edges.

No Ability To Digest Food

NERVOUS SYSTEM SO EXHAUSTED THAT VITAL ORGANS ARE FEEBLE IN ACTION

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The digestive system is a wonderful piece of machinery, but power is necessary to make it effective.

In this case the power is the nerve force contained in the body, and if the nerve force is lacking the digestive system becomes crippled and there is suffering from indigestion, nervous headaches, neuralgic pains, dizzy spells, weakness and discouragement.

Strength can not be regained from the food you eat so long as digestion is so imperfect, but you can be restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form the very elements of nature which go to form new nerve force.

Overwork, worry, anxiety and excessive mental effort exhaust the nervous system at a tremendous rate, and repair must be made before some dreadful form of nervous disease sets in. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, sharpens the apetite, is slightly laxative, so as to encourage the action of the bowels and strengthens every organ of the body.

You can use this treatment feeling certain that every dose is doing you at least some good, and can prove it by noting your increase in weight.

C. P. R. $1,000 Wheat Prize

The prize of $1,000 in gold offered by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the best 100 pounds of hard red wheat, grown in America and shown at the forthcoming land show at New York, in November, is arousing great interest among the Western Canadian farmers. The show, will be the biggest of its kind yet attempted and is being supported by all the leading land and irrigaion interests in America, as such is bound to be a success. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's prize of $1,000 is not the only one of that magnitude that has been offered, but it is relatively the most important as whereas the American prize givers have been careful to limit the competitors to United States farmers, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy has shown his firm confidence in Canadian products by throwing the contest for his prize open to all farmers of the continent of America. From the stand taken by United States leading donators of prizes, it is very evident that they are afraid that the Canadian farmer might capture all the prizes which would be a severe blow to the United States agriculturalists, nearly all the other competitions are limited to the United States farmers, Canadian farmers being barred. Evidently this is a free admission that Canadian farm products are superior to those of the United States and that the Americans are afraid to meet the Canadian farmers in open competition. By offering a prize of this magnitude Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is doing a great deal to encourage the Canadian farmer to grow clean, healthy crops and word received recently announces that as the time for competition of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's piece of work, and it could hardly being shown by the farmers in the land show. The farmers realize that the contest is of an international nature and that Canada's reputation must be upheld. Consequently many farmers in the West have ambitions to enter the contest, and enquiries as to the conditions of the competition are pouring into the Eastern offices of the C.P.R. from all sides.

Besides the $1,000 prize offered by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Canada will gain further prominence through the C.P.R.'s exhibit. This exhibit will be of an unusually novel and interesting nature and it will undoubtedly make New Yorkers "sit up and take notice". First of all there will be a itcpure of a complete homestead done entirely in seeds and grasses. Mr. J. P. Nash, who has been at the C.P.R.'s Demonstration Farm at Strathmore, Alta, preparing the exhibit does with seeds and grasses what other artists do with brush and canwas. The homestead is an exquisite piece of york, and it could hardly be believed that a picture, which at a distance of ten feet cannot be distinguished from an oil painting, could be constructed from the materials used. A large mat into which many native grasses have been woven, is another feature which is sure to attract considerable attention. At present Mr. Nash and his assistants are designing a large elk. The covering of seeds and grasses is now being woven for the stucco figure of this elk which will have real antlers. The eyes of the elk will be illuminated from the inside and the whole figure, when finished will be a triumph of ingenuity. The other features of the exhibit will be equally intersting and novel.

Lighthouse Without Keeper

A volcano on the island of San Salvador serves the purpose of a lighthouse, and it requires the attention of no keeper. The volcanic lighthouse is about eight miles inland from the port of Acajutla. It is a veritable pillar of cloud by day and the flash of its light by night has been valuable to mariners for years. It can be seen far out at sea and a burst of flame has gone upward every seven minutes without the variation of a second for many years.

A lighthouse fee is collected of all vessels that put in at the harbor nearest the volcano, and no skipper objects. He knows that the volcano is more reliable than the lighthouses kept by human beings on their coasts and the novelty of the light is worth the price charged by the government.

Tommy Still Said "No."

"So you took dinner at Willie Stout's house to-day?" said Tommy's mother to Tommy.

Tommy nodded.

"I trust," continued the maternal parent, "when it came to the extra helpings, you had manners enough to say 'No?'"

"Yes, ma," he murmured; "I said 'No' several times."

Ma regarded him sceptically.

"You did?" she pressed.

"Yes, ma," whispered Tommy. "Mrs. Stout kept askin' me if I'd had enough?"

Willis.—Do you think a man should be allowed to hold the highest honor in the United States for more than four years?

Dillis.—Sure thing! I say, if a man can top the league in batting for ten or fifteen years, let him stay in the game for the good of the sport.

Lady Parson

One of the embarrassments of the lady parson, who is now quite familiar in America, is illustrated by the following story:

A young lady who was the parson of a small town in a Western State was called to the door of the parsonage one day and saw there a much embarrassed young German farmer.

"Dey say de minister lifed in dis house," he said.

"Yes," replied the fair pastor.

"Vell—m—I vant to kit merrit."

"To get married? Very well, I can marry you," said the ministeress encouragingly.

"Oh, but I got a girl already."

Never Tempted

"George Washington never told a lie."

"Well, he wasn't much of a duck-hunter anyway."

"Smith's eldest boy ran away from home."

"I suppose Smith's furious at him?"

"No, I think he rather envies him."

Artificial Eyes

Artificial eyes originated in Egypt. At first they were made of gold and silver, then of copper and ivory. In the sixteenth century porcelain was the substance used, and the makers advertised themselves by stamping their names and addresses on the white of the eye. Porcelain was superceded by glass, which again has given place to enamel.

THE CONSERVATIVE MEETING

From the most enthusiastic meeting, held here on Thursday last, it is increasingly evident that the electors in this section of the province des're a thorough knowledge of the prevailing conditions, relative to the affairs of the province.

The one conclusion that was arrived at as the result of the visit here of Mr. Campbell, Mr. Bush and Mr. Hyndman seemed almost prevalent. In addition to the strong guard of Conservatives that attended the meeting, life-long Liberals were also dispersed throughout the gathering and gave an attentive ear to the many disclosures of maladministration and inferior government.

Needless to say, the electors were informed in a most emphatic manner of the many occasions where the present government at Edmonton was not eligible to administer the affairs of the province. The A. & G. W. Railway came in for much criticism as did also the government control and management of the Alberta telephone system. The broken promises of the government were in like manner dealt with and most convincing arguments used to show that the people of the province were not getting proper treatment from the government. This was especially applicable to the electors of this constituency and certainly no denials can be made to the statements. In the campaign of the present sitting member, Mr. A. Bramley-Moore many promises were made, which if acted upon, would have meant a great deal to the constituents of the riding. The improvement of the public highways was promised. Bridges were to be built where needed and many other improvements brought about.

As a matter of fact, since Mr. Moore was elected, absolutely nothing has been done in pursuance of his many promises. Roads are in a deplorable condition. Bridges have been built by the farmers, themselves, while utter disregard in every respect has been paid to his campaign promises.

The meeting was without any doubt the greatest triump that the Conservative party in this constituency has ever experienced.

The census returns for Wainwright like those of other cities and towns throughout the West is disappointing to say the least. Although it is not thought that the returns were not taken correctly in view of the fact that each additional name meant more to the enumerators, it does seem strange that the figures should not show a greater population.

Gleaner, Fredericton, N.B.—At the Halifax banquet, Premier Borden declared that the Conservative party must live up to its records and traditions, by giving the people of Canada an intelligent, progressive and clean government. That has the right ring, and we are sure that Premier Borden will be as good as his word.

Poor Champ Clark! The newspapers of neither Canada or the United States will let him die a slow death. His name is on the lips of every loyal subject of both countries and the sentiments of each are most gratifying to note.

A COMMENDABLE TAX RATE

It must certainly be a matter of great satisfaction to the local ratepayers to see that the promises, made in the past by the town council, in respect to the tax rate, have been carried out to the letter. The rate has been struck and it corresponds to the estimates made sometime ago by the STAR.

In almost every other town in the province, the rates are much higher than that struck by the local administrators. As high a rate as twenty-five mills prevails in many Alberta towns, where the assessment is even more than it is here. Ten mills on the dollar is about as low as could be arrived at by any municipality and in view of the fact that $43,000 worth of debentures must be provided for, the rate is a most commendable one and must meet with favor from the citizens. The school rate has also been set and will be five mills on the dollar. This is also a cause for general satisfaction.

From all appearanses, winter is determined to hang on and carry away until the proper season at which it should start in earnest. The thermometer has registered as low as twenty-five below, while much snow has fallen in all parts of the province. Farmers are, however, entirely unprepared for it and in consideration of the fact that not more than three fifths of the threshing is done in the different districts, it is evident that much of the work must be left over until the coming spring.

It is stated that the town of Coronation, which was recently the scene of auction sale of lots, similar to that held at Mirror, now boasts of a population of over nine hundred people. The town is but two months old and is on the line of the C. P. R. between Moose Jaw and Lacombe.

Champ Clark thinks that nine-tenths of the people of this country are in favor of annexing Canada. Champ is a chump.—Chicago Tribune.

Saskatoon Capital—At the rate the Chinese are killing off one another, the next census there will resemble that recently taken in Canada.

Edmonton Bulletin.—The price of sugar continues to soar. Whatever may cause the increase in the prices of other necessities of life, the price of this one is admitted by all to be the work of a handful of men who have established a trust under the shelter of the tariff which keeps out foreign refined sugar. It is the duty of the government to abolish this duty.

No fear should be entertained on the part of the citizens in regard to what the existing lines of railway throughout Canada intend doing for Wainwright in the near future. It has been stated that the G. T. P. has appearingly side-stepped one of their important divisional points but there is now every reason to believe that the officials intend even greater developments than has ever been expected.

Ten mills on the dollar is small but many will find that it is too large to pay in advance.

Perhaps of all men in the Liberal party at Edmonton, James K. Cornwall is the most progressive and enthusiastic over the undoubted possibilities of the North country. But then why shouldn't he be?

After a long tenture of office in Prince Edward Island, the Liberals have been displaced by the Opposition, who carried the recent bye-elections in that fair province. Nova Scotia has also signed up with the Conservative party in all its bye elections. A great change has appearingly come over the three Maratime Provinces.

G.T.P. MAKING DEVELOPMENTS

There will no doubt be a class of settlers in this section of the country who are looking for and will get tremendous returns for their labor at comparatively no expense.

For years "The Gateway to Cariboo" has been Ashcroft, where freight and passenger traffic has had to be hauled by waggon and stage.

With the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific this condition will be entirely changed next Spring, when the probabilities are that a steamer service will be operated between Tete Jaune Cache which will be the end of steel at that time, and Fort George, during the construction of the line between these two points. Ashcroft will lose its northern trade with startling suddeness, by the same token Edmonton will replace Vancouver at the same time as the supply point for British Columbia's Central interior. Freight will be carried west from Edmonton by rail to the cache and barged down the river to Fort George, Quesnel and Soda Creek much more cheaply than it can be wagoned from Ashcroft to Soda Creek, a distance of 167 long miles. It is a simple matter of economies.

"HOME AGAIN"

"Home Again" is the title of one of the most beautiful pictures ever seen in this country. It is an inspiration of love and affection—a picture that will be like a member of the family. This delightful picture, size 22 x 29 inches, all ready for framing, is given adsolutely free to all who subscribe to the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, this season. The year's subscription, including the picture, is only one dollar. The picture alone could not be bought for the money, and everyone knows what a magnificent paper the Family Herald and Weekly Star is. All Canada is proud of that great paper. The publishers deserve the immense circulation the paper enjoys.

The G.T.P. Is Making Many Improvements Throughout System

It is interesting to note the progress that is being made by the Grand Trunk Pacific Co. and for the information of the public we publish the following particulars regarding this great Transcontinental Ry. The lines at present in operation are as follows:

Fort William (or Keewatin) via Winnipeg, Saskatoon to Edmonton and Edson to Fitzhugh, 1472 miles.

Prince Rupert to Copper River, 100 miles.

Canora via Yorkton and Melville to Regina, 154 miles.

Tofield, Alta. to Mirror, 71 miles.

There is also a total mileage of about 900 on other sections of the Eastern Division which is in partial operation by construction trains.

Fitzhugh, Alta. to Copper River B. C., 618 miles.

Regina, Sask. via Moose Jaw northwest, 92 miles.

Regina to International Boundary, 130 miles.

Young to Prince Albert, Sask., 112 miles.

Oban to Battleford, Sask., 43

Mirror to Calgary, 130 miles.

Biggar, Sask. southwest, 105 miles.

Alberta Coal Branch, 50 miles.

Harte to Brandon, 25 miles.

As further particulars are received from the exploration party under Mr. A. O. Wheeler, Director of the Alpine Club, regarding their recent expedition over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through the Canadian Rocky Mountains, it is known that the new Transcontinental Railway will be able to offer to its patrons the finest scenery of any of the Transcontinental Railways in America.

In the last report received the territory in the vicinity of the head waters of the Athabasca and Whirlpool rivers is touched upon, and are Mr. Wheeler states, opening up a field for exploration and research, mountaineering and camping that is absolutely new, and of which practically nothing is known. This group of mountains is magnificient. It rises approximately to 12,000 feet above the sea level, and shows contours of the wildest and boldest possible forms. Immense snow fields and huge glaciers are everywhere. Boldest and most inaccessible rise the precipices of Mount Goodsir, the central point of the group. Again to the south are an endless array of peaks, towers and pyramids, domes, castles and ramparts in bewildering confusion.

An attempt was made to identify the much talked of giants of Columbia, Bryce, Lyall, Forbes, etc., but in the chaotic whole it could not be done with any certainty.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway have procured samples of apples grown in Kitsumkalum Valley, 90 miles east of Prince Rupert. These apples are of different varieties beautiful in in their coloring, and the flavor is in every respect up to the perfect brands grown in Ontario, entirely unlike the inferior flavored fruit grown under irrigation in the more southerly districts and are practically all the Pacific Coast States. The specimens came from the orchard of Mr. D. Stewart who has about 35 acres under cultivation and these represent the first grown on the operated line of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

In the valleys of the Kitsumkalum, Lakelse and Copper Rivers with other areas along the Skeena River there should be approximately 300,000 acres of the finest fruit land and much of this land can be procured by pre-emption at 160 acres for the only charge being one dollar per acre in addition to the residence requirements of the law. It is confidently predicted that this territory will become the centre of a new and greater fruit district in British Columbia.

At Prince Rupert this summer strawberries grown along the Skeena River and in the valleys of the Kitsumkalum, Lakelse and Copper Rivers came into the market for the first time in considerable quantities and the fruit is reported to be superior to anything grown on this Continent, being expressly high colored and as sweet and fine a flavor as wild strawberries. Their size is remarkable, running as large as a good sized crab apple or a small snow apple.

For the Children

The Sad Fate of a Fighting Crow.

The hero of this sad tale is or was Jim Crow. He was captured in the woods from the nest in which he was born. At first he would not eat, but when bread soaked in water was forced into his mouth he got a fine appetite. In a short time he became very tame and kept his master busy digging worms in the garden to satisfy his hunger. If his wants were not immediately attended to he would scream loudly. Then as he grew strong he began to annoy the hens in the yard, stealing their food and sometimes pecking the chickens. One day he made a grievous mistake, however. He attacked a gamecock which was strutting about the yard, and the fun began. Poor Jim was no match for the gamecock, and when he was finally rescued he was a sorry sight. That was enough for Jim, and thereafter he steered clear of the poultry yard.

A Fine Toy Ship.

Did you ever know a boy who wasn't proud to own a toy boat? The emperor of Germany owns a miniature boat that would delight the heart of every boy. It is an heirloom in the imperial family, having been given by William IV. of England to Frederick William III., great-grandfather of the present emperor. The boat is a full rigged, three masted vessel, fifty-five feet in length, drawing but four feet of water and having a capacity of thirty tons. Emperor William's favorite amusement when a boy was to sail in this boat. His brother, Prince Henry, always went with him. This man-of-war can sail the water the same as the largest ship, but the crew must of necessity be limited in number. The name of the great toy is the Royal Louise, after the Prussian Queen Louise.

It was built on the Thames in 1832 and was towed down the river and across the North sea by a steamer to Hamburg. From this place it was floated by a flat barge up the Elbe into the Havel at Potsdam, where it still remains.

Streets of New York City.

New York city streets have a mileage of nearly 2,700, which is exactly the distance between New York and London. There are 1,905 miles of paved streets, which if placed in a connected line would reach from New York to Amarillo, Texas. The sheet and block asphalt streets aggregate 803 miles, equal to the distance between New York and Detroit. There are 943 miles of macadam streets.

QUARTER SAWING LOGS.

Four Different Methods of Cutting Quartered Lumber.

If the saw is large enough to reach through the log saw the first line down the center of the log, leaving enough timber at the back end to gig back the outside half, dropping it on the log deck. Turn the remaining half flat face to the head blocks and saw the second line down the center, leaving enough timber at the end to gig back the outside quarter, dropping the same on the log deck and leaving on the carriage the last quarter, which is ready to be cut up into lumber by one of the four methods, says the Wood-Worker. The method shown between A and B gives the best results if full faced grain is wanted, but the waste is greater. The method shown between B and C is the next best. The other two methods do not show so handsome a grain, but produce more boards.

METHODS OF QUARTER SAWING.

If the log is too large for the saw run the first line down the center of the log, gig back and quarter cant the log from you; then saw the second line down the center, taking out a quarter of the log. Get the second quarter in the same manner. The log must be securely dogged.

AUTOMATIC BALANCES.

Weighing Apparatus That Performs Its Work Unaided.

Two French inventors have recently applied for letters patent in the United States for an invention which is to greatly improve weighing apparatus now in use.

The weight of any article can be determined with this new apparatus with an exactness depending on the degree of sensibility of the apparatus, which can be increased at will. The weight may be read without any separate operation on the graduated scales provided for that purpose. The operation can be performed automatically and without any special action of the user. From an interview had with both the inventors there appears to be no other device of a similar nature in existence, either in France or the United States.

Simultaneous with the foregoing the same persons invented an improvement in automatic calculators, to be used in connection with the automatic balance above referred to, as well as with any other system of balances in which equilibrium is obtained by the aid of a traveler moving along a beam. It may also be provided with an apparatus for printing and issuing cards or tickets and for keeping a record, as well as for a totalizing device.—Consular Report.

WEEKLY CLEANING.

Best Plan For Keeping the Home In Order.

Sensible furnishings and [illegible] weekly cleaning do away with [illegible] time "housecleaning." There need never be a time when the house is torn up from attic to cellar. Decorating and repairs may come at easy intervals if one chooses.

The items below are suggestions as to order and method in the weekly cleaning of a room.

Clean movable draperies, ornaments and small furniture and take from room.

Dust and roll up shades.

Remove smaller rugs and clean them.

Brush, dust and cover larger pieces of furniture.

Brush higher woodwork and walls.

Dust picture frames and wipe backs of smaller pictures.

Shake out window and other large draperies and pin up.

Sweep heavier rugs and roll up.

Dust gas fixtures.

Clean the floor.

Up to a certain point a feather duster is allowable. When the dust has settled it should be removed by using a slightly dampened cloth. As ordinarily performed dusting simply whisks the lint from one place to another. Ideas of dusting are many and varied; some dust only what is in sight, others what might be seen and a few dust everywhere. They never fail to wipe the window sashes where they meet and lock. They open all doors and clean them on top and two sides as well as back and front. More than that, they dust the casing where the door touches when closed. One never finds a solid black line down their door casings.

Windows may be cleaned at any convenient time when in the shade. A little alcohol in the water keeps it from freezing on the glass in cold weather.

Mother's Hat.

When a woman has, in the polite euphemism, ceased to be so young as she once was it may be taken as a general rule that she will look younger if she wears a broad brimmed hat that shades her face. But there are other considerations, for by doing so she may lose dignity, may even become a little grotesque, while if she is stout her face will gain in youthfulness at the expense of her unfortunate figure, and she will look as if she had been squashed by having some one sit down on top of her and forget to get up for a very long time.

That is why a woman of uncertain age should be encouraged to the wearing of small hats and why women of forty should not go abroad in millinery that might have come out of their daughter's bandboxes. A woman of forty is not old, but neither is she jeune fille, and in dress she may surely be supposed to have arrived at years of discretion. Colors are often becoming, especially when the hair begins to turn gray, and Yedda tagal and rustic straws may any of them be worn with a chip for a best bonnet.

BRAZILIAN COCOA PALM.

Beautiful and Useful Tree Attains Perfection at Pernambuco.

Pernambuco is situated in the center of the tropical section of Brazil, within which the cocoa palm grows most luxuriantly. The cocoa palm seems to be indigenous to the district which extends from the vicinity of Bahia, on the south, to Parahyba, on the north, but it attains its fully luxuriant and most prolific development in the vicinity of Pernambuco.

The cocoa palm is one of the most beautiful and attractive natural adornments of many of the public parks and private gardens of this city and environs, often attaining a height of from eighty to ninety feet. The trunk is without branches, and the leaves, which cluster in a tuft at the top, are from fifteen to twenty feet in length. At the base of the leaves the nuts hang in clusters, the number varying from three to fifteen, according to the age and condition of the tree.

While this particular palm grows naturally, it thrives a great deal better with care and cultivation, and there are several large plantations near Pernambuco planted within recent years and carefully cultivated which are now returning a fair revenue to the owners. Most of these plantations are located along the coast, but the tree will grow and produce up to an altitude of 2,624 feet.

The nut is first planted in its natural state, with hull and fiber. At the expiration of about twelve months, or when the plant has reached a height of about three feet, it is transplanted and set out in rows about forty feet apart. If cultivated and irrigated the tree will produce at the end of five years; otherwise it will require about ten years to produce. Although the rainfall within this coast region averages about eighty inches per annum, several inches often fall within a very short while, and all falls during the months of the "rainy season," and often when it is of no service to certain vegetation. The summers are hot and dry, and young plants and trees need to be irrigated.

There are two cocoanut markets in Pernambuco—one for the green and the other for the mature or dried nuts. The green nuts, which are picked at about the end of five months and before the real meat of the nut has begun to form inside, are composed entirely of water, for which exclusive purpose they are bought and sold and which forms one of the principal and most popular beverages of that section of Brazil. This water is nonalcoholic and when iced is converted into a most savory refrigerant. Its action is diuretic. When the nut is partially mature the inside is sometimes extracted and by the use of sugar and some other ingredients is converted into a popular confection. The meat of the dried or ripe nut is used exclusively for food, being usually seasoned and mixed with different provisions for flavoring purposes.

How Paint Prevents Rust.

Inasmuch as both moisture and oxygen are necessary in order that corrosion may proceed, it can easily be seen that the [illegible] a protective paint is to exclude [illegible] of these elements. It is well known that a linseed oil film is an excessively porous structure, acting somewhat as a sponge toward moisture and freely allowing the passage of oxygen. The function of the pigments employed in paint is therefore at least threefold—first, the more obvious one of imparting a color thereto; second, the most important one of filling up the pores or interstices in the oil film, thus rendering it as little impervious to moisture and air as possible, and, third, to aid the composite film in drying or oxidizing to a compact impenetrable covering. Very little work has as yet been done upon paints from this point of view, but with a clear conception of the factors involved in the corrosion of iron an intelligent study is made possible and valuable results can be predicted with certainty.—Engineering Magazine.

The Hand and the Brain.

The processes of reasoning by which scientific conclusions are reached sometimes equal in interest the conclusions themselves. Not long ago a skull was discovered at Chapelle-aux-Saints, in France, which has been pronounced to be probably the oldest bodily relic of prehistoric man yet found. It has many of the characters of the monkey and shows little indication of intelligence, but careful examination reveals a slight excess of size of the left hemisphere, from which it is argued that the owner of the skull was right handed and consequently a user of tools, a conclusion which is thought to be supported by the fact that ancient stone implements were found in the neighborhood.

Pen For Night Writing.

An English inventor had occasion to write with his fountain pen in the dark, and it flashed across his mind that if he had a tiny electric lamp on the pen it would enable him to see. So he acted on this suggestion with good results. The upper part of the pen barrel contains a miniature electric battery, and in the lower part there is a very small incandescent lamp. When one wants to write in the dark simply turn the little knob at the top of the pen and this lights up the lamp.

The Three Peanut States.

Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia are the leading peanut states. In Virginia the white peanut and the small red peanut are the varieties chiefly produced, while Georgia also largely produces this small red nut. In Tennessee the white nut, which is larger than the red, and the larger variety of the red nut are raised. The chief peanut counties are Humphreys, Perry, Hickman and Dickson, but the area of peanut cultivation has been enlarged in more recent years. Few peanuts are produced in east or west Tennessee, but in the counties named they are the chief money crop of a large per cent of the farmers. The peanut has many names—goober, pindar, earth nut, ground nut, ground pea. Northern soldiers called them goobers, and there was a well known song entitled "Grabbing Goober Peas," which was a favorite with troops "marching through Georgia."—Nashville American.

DRAPED TUNICS.

New Modes More Modish Than Classic Effects.

GOWN OF MOIRE SILK AND VELVET.

Over a petticoat of red velvet this moire silk tunic, also in the rich red shade, is most gracefully draped to suggest folds of fabric swathing the figure. Above the tunic is a little bodice of red chiffon, showing the new double sleeve.

Padding Embroidery.

Where heavy padding is desired under embroidery try using little wads of raw cotton instead of filling in the edded space with many stitches of darning thread.

To pad a scallop catch up a bit of raw cotton in your fingers and roll it between the thumb and forefinger until it is the length of the scallop, thick in the center, but tapering to a mere thread at each end. Lay this on the scallop and with a few material. Embroider over it in the usual way.

Flowers have their petals padded by making little cushion-like wads of cotton and catching them down to the material, well inside the working line, with ordinary sewing cotton.

Coin dots and ribbon designs are treated accordingly.

FURNACE MANAGEMENT.

How to Secure Heat With a Minimum Consumption of Coal.

The old practice of shaking a fire down, removing the ashes, filling up with coal and turning on all the dampers is one of the most wasteful imaginable, writes G. E. Walsh in the Scientific American. Slight shaking several times through the day, a few shovels of coal applied every few hours and with drafts half open, means a uniform, steady fire that will give the greatest amount of heat at a minimum consumption of coal.

It is possible with skillful stoking or firing of this nature to burn soft coal in many of our stoves and furnaces without smudging the landscape with soot and smoke. Get a good bed of hot coals and then feed gradually and shake lightly. The result in combustion is uniform and the heat units utilized greater than by any other method. If the chimney draft is good and the furnace well designed there should be few occasions when all of the drafts will be needed if skillful stoking is adopted. There will also be a complete reduction of the coal to soft ashes, leaving no half burnt pieces. Poking will be unnecessary unless clinkers accumulate in places to retard shaking down.

This method of treating the furnace has been tried time and again, with the result of a saving of from two to five tons of coal in the same house in a single winter. The interior temperature of the house was kept more uniform also because of the more uniform heat maintained in the furnace. Try the method once and see the difference. The chief thing is always to keep a uniform bed of hot coals in the furnace and never wait until the fuel is all burnt out before adding new. Shake the furnace down lightly every time fresh coal is put on, and keep the dampers or draft only half or three-quarters open. In very cold weather they may have to be opened full, but not very often or for very long.

six foot sections of contact rails are bolted to the regular tracks. To these are connected starting relays in such a manner that the tread of the wheels makes a contact as the car passes over, but there are no moving parts. The passing of a car over the contact making device simply starts the mechanism actuating the pendulum and gong, which, being provided with a timing element, runs a given length of time before stopping, thus warning all who approach.—Popular Mechanics.

Origin of Ozone.

Ozone, which is an allotropic form of oxygen, has long been recognized as an active purifying agent in the atmosphere owing to its powerful oxidizing qualities, but the question of its origin has been much disputed. The investigations of Henriet, in France, have led him to the conclusion that ozone forms in the upper regions of the air, probably under the influence of the ultra-violet radiations from the sun, and that it is brought downward toward the surface of the earth both by descending air currents and by drops of rain. After a shower of rain the quantity of ozone in the air is always found to have been increased.

An Ancient Ironmaster.

Hogge's House at Buxted, Sussex, England, in the center of the old iron district, was formerly the residence of Ralph Hogge, an ironmaster. He is celebrated as having been the first to cast a cannon in one piece. This occurred in 1543. Originally big guns were hooped and dangerous to manage. The worthy merchant's discovery revolutionized the trade and brought him wealth and fame. His ancient home, embowered in trees, is still in good condition, well worth seeing and quite close to the church. On its facade is a hog in bas-relief.

SEEKING STOLEN PAINTING.

French Detective Got Wrong Clue to "Mona Lisa."

FOR hours the French sleuth had followed the man through devious highways and byways, the unsuspecting fellow slouching along with his canvas roll held tightly under his arm.

"Aha," hissed the smiling detective, "I have heem at ze last!"

He came a little closer. Spots of paint were distinctly visible on the canvas roll.

The sleuth sprang forward and snatched away the package.

"I ar-r-rest you," he dramatically cried, "for ze theft of ze gr-r-reat 'Mona Lisa!'"

The suspect stared at the sleuth, and the sleuth stared at the unrolled canvas.

"Monsieur," said the suspect calmly, "I will thank you to return to me my overalls!"

And taking the canvas garment from the detective's nerveless fingers he continued along the road to Passy.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dangerous Story.

A Yale undergraduate has been having a fairly lively time of it during his summer vacation and when the allowance has not been keeping schedule time.

He was invited out to dinner with his mother, and he was seen to get a bit nervous when she began one of her favorite stories. This concerned the burning of their home, on which occasion the son's watch, left on a bureau, was found ticking in the ruins after the house had been destroyed.

At the conclusion of the story the college boy jumped up abruptly and left the room with his handkerchief over his face as if suddenly seized with nosebleed. He did not return for several minutes, by which time the conversation drifted.

After dinner the "undergrad's" chum asked the significance of the move.

"I'll tell you, but nobody else," said he. "When mother told that story I was afraid she was going to ask me to show the watch."—Chicago Post.

"Well, now, deacon, it isn't anything of the kind. The bottles look so pretty on the sideboard that I just filled them halfway with some floor stain and furniture polish, just for appearances."

"That's why I'm cautioning you, sister," replied the deacon. "Feeling a trifle weak and faint, I helped myself to a dose from the big bottle in the middle."—London Telegraph.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS

BY REV. SAMUEL W. PURVIS, D.D.

THE GOD OF THE LUCKY.

Text, "The Lord was with Joseph, and he was a lucky fellow" (Tyndale's translation).—Genesis xxxix, 2.

His name was Joseph. He rose from the slave pen to the throne. The Bible says he was "a lucky fellow." As the other slaves saw him rise they said, "What a lucky fellow!" Of course he toiled while other slaves slept. He looked after Potiphar's affairs, while the other slaves looked after themselves. He busied himself bettering the prison, while others busied themselves trying to break out. There are plus and minus people. Joseph was plus. Still God and man said Joseph was "a lucky fellow."

One ought to define "luck." That which chances to a person for good or ill." But when you say "chance" you confess ignorance. The very flip of the coin is governed by nerve, muscle, thumb and brain that flip it. If you could calculate the mental and physical forces between the coin's leap and return you could buy the world. But you can't. And it's just that bit of ignorance we call "chance." If a boy hated to saw wood, and of the load of pine, hickory and beech most of the pine fell to his brother's side, and the hard, knotty wood fell to him, he would say he had bad luck. Nevertheless there would be a cause for the wood so falling. If, however, the boy's father had so stacked the wood that the pine fell to one and the hickory to another, because one was better fitted for his lot than the other, the word "chance" would have no place there. If one sawed wood while the other taught his dog to balance a chip of wood on his nose there might be still another reason.

The Luck of Having a Job.

Joseph's good luck was in having an opportunity of demonstrating his fitness for doing large things by faithfulness to small things. He had the luck of being a servant. That was his chance. Every fellow who has a job has a chance. Don't think for a moment that things went smooth and without opposition. There were court intrigues and high officials, who envied him and tried to knife him on the sly. Let's admit for the moment that there's "luck." Well, to Joseph it "broke wrong." He was sold a slave. Blessed is the man whom misfortune doesn't sour. If our ill luck makes us sour we're "goners." If we are brave and smile things start to "come our way." Some men are cradled on feathers, some on rocks. Bunyan in Bedford jail was better off than the king of England. John the Baptist in dungeon at Machaerus castle was in better "luck" than Herod on the throne, though the former was beheaded. Franklin munching his penny roll on the streets of Philadelphia looking for a job, George W. Childs wheeling his barrow when the other boys had gone home, the New York judge who rammed paving stones on the street to get money to make a start are instances of hard "luck." When some official pushed a stumbling block in Joseph's way he stepped up on it. A postal clerk in Washington got "bounced," had saved $100, worked his way to Japan, started there a postal system and got $11,000 a year.

A Bible Cinderella?

No; no magic or miracle about it. "He had a 'pull'?" Yes, in a sense. He took his ill luck—i. e., his brother's envy, father's foolishness, boyish vanity, love of money, a woman's lust, lying lips, an ungrateful butler's forgetfulness, a despot's caprice, troubled dreams and ignorant magicians, strung them together into a rope to "pull" himself to the throne next to Pharaoh. "He was faithful," the book says. In this shoddy age, shoddy clothes, shoddy ideas, shoddy morals, "faithful" needs emphasizing. He had a clear record. Remember John B. Gough's last words—"Young man, keep your record clear." No skeleton in his soul's closet; no Banquo's ghost; no Belshazzar's fear of shadows; no Macbeth crying "Out, damned spot." And in prosperity? Adversity develops character; prosperity demands it. Weight of prison may be lighter than weight of power. Flowers that bloom under snow wither under sun. From slave pen to throne was but a night; prison rags to palace robe, fetter of iron to chain of gold, bed of straw to couch of down—all in a day? No; it took a lifetime.

The Essence of Luck.

The great word in Joseph's vocabulary was not "luck," but "God." No accident to him that "The Lord was with Joseph." Joseph was with the Lord. God's hand was on the helm of his life. He acknowledged God, as did Captain Philip on the deck of the Texas after battle of Santiago, like Grant declining royal reception in Europe on Sunday, like Victoria telling Indian princes secret of her empire's power was the Bible. Joseph found God's will and went that way. He looked at his difficulties through God, not at God through his difficulties. "Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him and he shall bring it to pass," was the first article in his creed, section one in his constitution. His disappointments were God's appointments. He saw God in slave pen, prison, temptation, before Pharaoh. "Them that honor me I will honor." Joseph was true to God, God to Joseph. The secret of his success was God. Get that, friend? "The Lord was with Joseph, and he was a lucky fellow." His was the God of the lucky.

Mr. Campbell also dealt to some length with the natural resources of the province. The conservative party had promised them in the federal campaign. The electors of Alberta had voted against the granting of them. It was his opinion that they could very easily obtain them by saying so at the polls. Duncan Marshall had said that it was a dead issue but now he had joined with Premier Sifton, said that he was wrong and thereby shown unmitigated nerve by asking Borden to hand them over.

The A. and G. W. railway policy was also touched on. The province was paying $56,000 annualy for a period of fifty years, over and above what the money with which to build the road could have been secured for in the ordinary financial markets of the world. It was the work of the liberal party, who had shown absolutely no business ability. The borrowing powers of Alberta were at an end as was shown by the premier's failure to secure more money in the Old Country last summer.

At the present time, the debt per capita was $2.75. This had been done by Sifton, who had been in power but two years. What would happen were they allowed to remain in power and administer in such a manner the affairs of the province? "When the people find out just how far they have been plunged into debt," said he, "they will turn him out at the first opportunity, as the people of the South have shown in the bye-elections."

The government telephone was also shown up and the management severely censured. Sifton's policy of erecting expensive public buildings was also deplored. $200,000 had been estimated for the improvements of highways and the construction of bridges. He believed that in the face of the condition of the roads, more money should be provided for to repair the roads and open up new ones. The government should not erect such buildings when they could very well do without them. $30,000 was the estimate given for drainage purposes, while the same amount had been expended in the cellar of the lieutenant-governor's residence. If the constituents would look into these matters, he was confident that Mr. Michener would be given a trial when the proper time came.

Mr. J. D. Hyndman, who contested the federal seat in Edmonton against Hon. Frank Oliver in 1904, was the next speaker, and it was admittedly correct that he gave the most powerful and accurate review of the financial condition of the province that has yet been heard from either the platform or the press. Affairs were becoming so serious that the farmers must pay a direct tax to the government in addition to that paid to their particular municipalities. The election laws were also dealt with and the statement made that it was absurd to presume that the people would stand for such laws being thrust upon them.

The A. & G. W. railway policies of both Rutherford and Sifton came in for much criticism and both were explained in detail. Mr. Hyndman's speech was a most convincing one and explained many matters of which the electors were not aware.

In opening his speech, Mr. Bush, the last speaker referred to the fight that Mr. Campbell had made in Strathcona as being a most creditable one, in view of the conditions under which it had been carried on. Regarding local issues, he first referred to the natural resources of the province. Haultain had run a coalition government and Ex-Premier Rutherford, when running for the territorial assembly, had carried the natural resources policy in his hand. Hon. Frank Oliver had done the same. Both of these men had changed their views when this policy was adhered to by the conservatives but they had gone to their reward for such inconsistency.

Mr. Bush also referred to the provincial debt of $9,500,000 and in this connection stated that, with the control of our natural resources, enough money would be provided to pay off and have a good surplus with which to build railways, bridges and improve the public highways.

After the mass meeting, a conservative banquet was held at the Park Hotel, at which the members of the executive and visiting conservatives were present. Short toasts were given and a very pleasant wind-up to the day was resultant.

DISTRESSING HEADACHES

Headaches are largely the result of disordered kidneys.

Mrs. Hall, 81 Flora Street, St. Flora St., St. Thomas, Ont., says "I suffered for years with headaches of a most distressing nature. They would come on me suddenly, and would last for days at a time. These were usually accompanied by spells of dizziness that would leave me unable to attend to my household duties. My back was weak and caused me much suffering through the night. I had doctored for years, but all to no avail. Nothing benefited me and my condition was gradually becoming worse. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills. One box gave me a complete and lasting cure. I have not had a headache or dizzy spell since and I feel like a new person."

The STAR is in receipt of a letter from a well-known citizen, who has dealt to great length on the "child's play", as he calls it, that has been taking place for the past few days. We have refrained from publishing this, in view of the fact that this paper is sent broadcast among people, who should not know the existing circumstances in the town.

Judging from what has appeared in the editorial columns of the Edmonton Bulletin for sometime past, Premier Sifton has a railway policy that will be announced during the coming session of the legislature. It is to be hoped that such may prove the case and that the A. & G. W. railway will appear in a different light than during the past.

RELIEF IS QUICK; BUT CURE IS SURE

NAPOLEON VAILLONCOURT SPEAKS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

They soon cured his Kidney troubles, and in six months the-e is no sign of their coming back.

St. Anne des Monts, Gaspe Co., Que.—(Special)—"It is six months since I was cured, and I have had no return of my trouble." In these words, Napoleon Vaillancourt, a well known resident of this place, gives evidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills not only give qick relief to sufferers from Kidney Disease, but clean that disease out, root and branch, and cure it permanently.

That Mr. Vaillancourt had Kidney Disease everyone here knows. That he is cured is also established beyond a doubt. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it.

"My back bothered me, also my heart and my kidneys, and my limbs would cramp," Mr. Vaillancourt states in giving his experience. Now all that is gone and he is a sound healthy man. Do you wonder that he recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills?

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure quickly and permanently because they go right to the root of the trouble. They act directly on the Kidneys. They never fail to cure.

Colored Teeth

Pearly teeth are not the fashion everywhere. Firms of artificial teth manufacturers who have an export trade, have to keep in stock molars of every shade of color from white to black. There is a steady demand for black teeth in Siam, Java, Batavia and Burma, where the natives chew the betel-nut, which blackens the teeth. For Persia, the teeth must be absolutely milk-white. Recently an order was received from Bhavnager, in India, for some bright red, and blue artificial teeth. Smokers' teeth are regularly supplied to dentists in shades to match those which have been destroyed by nicotine.

To have the children sound and healthy is the first care of a mother. They cannot be healthy if troubled with worms. Use Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Marriage in Burma

In Burma marriage is civil, not religious and is regarded as a simple partnership which, if not happy, may be dissolved at any time. After marriage there is no outward symbol like a wedding ring on the Burmese woman. She does not even adopt her husband's family name, but retains her own. The husband has no right over the property which his wife possesses before marriage, nor of the property which she might acquire after marriage. The Burmese woman can appear in law courts to represent her husband. In contracts with a third person, she and her husband sign their name together. They can borrow money on joint security. Both husband and wife can sign deeds and lend money. And when there is no longer any love between a married couple they can get a divorce quickly.

Inexorable Fate.

An old maid on the wintry side of fifty, hearing of the marriage of a pretty young lady, her friend, observed with a deep and sentimental sigh: "Well, I suppose it is what we must all come to."

Shipwreck Today

"Captain, is there much danger?"

"Not a particle. A moving picture outfit will soon be along and rescue us after they have taken a few films."

Through indiscretion in eating green fruit in summer many children become subject to cholera morbus caused by irritating acids that act violently on the lining of the intestines. Pains and dangerous purgings ensue and the delicate system of the child suffers under the drain. In such cases the safest and surest medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It will check the inflammation and save the child's life.

A Baltimore school teacher had encounterd such a degree of ignorance on the part of one of her boys, in relation to the recorded acts of the Father of his Country, that she grew sarcastic.

"I wonder," she began, "if you could tell me whether George Washington was a sailor or a soldier?"

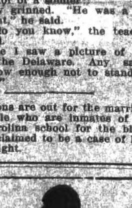

The boy grinned. "He was a soldier alright," he said.

"How do you know," the teacher challenged.

"Because I saw a picture of him crossing the Delaware. Any sailor would know enough not to stand up in a boat."

Invitations are out for the marriage of a couple who are inmates of the South Carolina school for the blind. It is not claimed to be a case of love at first sight.

NEURALGIA CURED

THIS PAINFUL TROUBLE IS DUE TO POVERTY OF THE BLOOD

Neuralgia is one of the most painful maladies that afflicts humanity. The trouble is usualy seated in the face and head, following the course of some nerve, but it attacks other parts of the system as well. It is characterized by acute pains, sometimes steady, at others spasmodic and darting, headaches and a feeling as though the forehead was a band of iron. Medical authorities agree that neuralgia is a cry of the nerves for better food, and that if the blood is purified and enriched the trouble will disappear. This is the reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure even the most severe cases of neuralgia. They actually make new, rich blood which feeds the tired starved nerves and thus cure the trouble, at the same time leaving the sufferer in better health in every way than was formerly enjoyed. In proof we give the case of Mr. G. Brooks, of Aurora, Ont., who says: "About two years ago, while working in Collingwood, I was attacked with neuralgia, which became so bad that I was frequently unable to go to work. The pain would start over my right eye and would then spread to the whole face, and caused me the greatest agony. I was under the care of a good doctor, but his treatment did not do more than give me temporary relief, and I was therefore an almost constant sufferer. Acting on the advice of my wife I finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I am profoundly thankful that I did so, as in the course of a few weeks I began to improve, and after a further use of the Pills the trouble disappeared and I have not since had any trace of it. I may also add that while taking the Pills my weight increased by nine pounds, which shows that the Pills are a body builder as well as a nerve restorer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mining to Civilize China

China is at last to become a mining country, says The National Review (Shanghai) which remarks that the two great peaceful agents of civilization are the locomotive and miner's pick. In America, Australia and Africa the pick preceded the locomotive, notes the writer; in China, on the contrary, mining has only recently been developed. Yet mining promotes progress in as many ways as locomotion, he argues. It requires scientific skill of a high order, that bring capital into the country and furnishes to home industries the raw materials which would otherwise have to be imported. China has long been behind in this field of enterprise, yet no territory on earth is better endowed with mineral wealth, and we read:

"China possesses a large store of mineral. Almost every province in this empire is heavily mineralized. Millions of gallons of petroleum are imported annually, yet China possesses what may some day prove to be the vastest oil fields of the world. She has recently borrowed some £20,000,000 sterling, and yet she owns goldfields of equal value to any known in history. When we consider these facts, to say nothing about any other of the multifarious applications of the same incidence, we feel more than justified in attaching even greater importance to the work of the pick in China than to the use of the locomotive.

Facts About Yourself

The average number of teeth is 32.

The weight of the circulating blood is 29 lbs.

The average weight of an adult is 150 lbs. 6 ozs.

The brain of a man exceeds twice that of any other animal.

A man breaths about 20 times a minute, 1,200 times in an hour.

The average weight of the brain of a man is 3½ lbs.; of a woman 2 lbs. 11 oz.

Five hundred and forty pounds, or one hogshead and one and a quarter pints, of blood pass through the heart in one hour.

The average height of an Englishman is 5 ft. 9 in.; of a Frenchman, 5 ft. 4 in.; of a Belgian 5 ft. 6¾ in.

The heart sends nearly 10 lbs. of blood through the veins and arteries each beat, and makes four beats while we breathe once.

One hundred and seventy-five million cells are in the lungs, which would cover a surface thirty times greater than the human body.

The average of the pulse in infancy is 120 per minute; in manhood, 80; at sixty years, 60. The pulse of females is more rapid than that of males.

The Pure Food Law stopped the sale of hundreds of fraudulant medicines. They could not stand investigation. Hamlins Wizard Oil has stood the test of investigation for nearly sixty years.

Long Flights of Birds

Birds of passage make their longest flight somewhere near Bering strait. A naturalist says that probably the longest continuous flight made by the feathered travellers in their peregrinations is accompanied by some of the shore and water birds that nest in the island of the Bering sea and spend the winter at Hawaii and Fanning Island, 1,200 miles away.

As some of the birds live entirely on the shore, and are probably unable to rest on the surface of the water, they must accomplish the whole distance in a single flight, yet they make their way to the destination with absolute precision.

She—Anyhow, you must admit that he is a well-read man. Did you notice his knowledge of Aristotle?

He—I did and if you want my candid opinion I don't believe he's ever been there.

The Doctor's Fee

There came a let-up in the rush of patients, and the doctor opened two small envelopes lying on his desk.

"It's all right," he said. "I wasn't sure. Without offending I couldn't open the envelopes in the presence of the persons who gave them to me. They contain the fees left by two Englishmen who called close on each other's heels. English etiquette is rather embarrassing for a physician who is used to patients who hand over the money without the denomination right on top, American fashion. In England it would be considered an insult to give a physician his unwrapped. You can't insult an American physician that way, but newcomers credit him with an excess of sensibility and give him a good many uneasy moments wondering if he hasn't been underpaid."

Penn Very Much a Londoner

William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania, was born at Tower Hill, on October 14, 1644, was christened in All Hallows Church, became a student of Lincoln's Inn, and then, joining the Quakers, he abandoned the law and preached along with George Fox in a meeting house of Lombard St. He once occupied a house in Norfolk St., Strand, chosen on account of its closeness to the river, which facilitated escape from duns, and he was imprisoned both at Newgate and the Fleet. So Penn, was after all, very much a Londoner.

Away with Depression and Melancholy.—These two evils are the accompaniment of a disordered stomach and torpid liver and mean wretchedness to all whom they visit. The surest and speediest way to combat them is with Parmele's Vegetable Pills, which will restore the healthful action of the stomach and bring relief. They have proved their usefulness in thousands of cases and will continue to give relief to the suffering who are wise enough to use them.

Sherlock Holmes

It is said that the late Dr. Joseph Bell, of Edinburgh, was modestly proud of the fact that he was the original of Conan Doyle's "Sherlock Holmes." He is described as walking into his drawing room one winter evening to find a group of women absorbed in reading and discussing a new book.

With his habitual spirit of inquiry he asked what they were reading and they told him that it was the "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," the story of a most entrancing individual whom they only wished it were possible to meet in real life.

"I know the man," observed the doctor, quietly, hastening away before they had time to ply him with the many surprising questions that naturally rose to their lips. Returning shortly from seeing his patient, he came back for one brief minute to finish his story and to announce with as much modesty as might be, "I am Sherlock Holmes."

Dr. Bell's methods are illustrated in an interview in his consulting room with a bricklayer suffering from spinal complaint. "It aches, does it?" said the sympathetic doctor, "I have no doubt it does, and carrying a heavy hod of bricks won't improve it any, will it?"

The afflicted bricklayer, being a reticent Scot, kept his surprise to himself till the end of the interview, when he asked somewhat cannily. "I am no sayin' you're wrang, but what telt ye I was a bricklayer to trade?"

It had never occurred to the workman that the man, presumably occupied with his spine, could have noticed the rough, horny hands, that, to the practised eye, at once revealed his trade.

A Cruet Stand

Several villagers were discussing a departed sister, who had been given to good deeds, but was rather too fond of dispensing sharp spoken advice.

"She was an excellent woman," said the deceased lady's pastor. "She was constantly in the homes of the poor and afflicted. In fact, she was the salt of the earth."

"She was more than that," remarked a villager. "She was the vinegar, the pepper and the mustard as well. She was a perfect cruet stand of virtues."

Not to be Outdone

A French woman, proud of her limited knowledge of English, and an American woman, proud of her limited knowledge of French, were introduced at an evening party. The French woman insisted upon expressing herself in bad English, and the American woman would talk nothing but bad French.

When the guests began to depart they were still at it. At last they rose to go. Here is their watery farewell:

"Reservoir," said the fair American.

"Tanks," responded her new friend.

Bessie's Little Bear

An amusing incident of a child's misconception of the words of a popular hymn occurred recently at a Sunday School in Sommersetshire. The teacher, turning to the girl at the head of the class—to whom was accorded the privilege of choosing the hymn to be sung before closing the school—asked, "What hymn would you like, Bessie?" "Please, sir," replied the girl, "the hymn about the little she bear." "The litle she bear? What do you mean?" "Please, sir, was the answer, "the hymn that says, 'Can a mother's tender care cease toward the child she bear'?"

Master.—Tommy, if you gave your little brother nine sticks of peppermint, and took away seven, what would that make?

Tommy—It would make him yell.

"Is your friend mendacious?" "No; he's a liar."—Baltimore American.

His Preference

Magistrate.—You say this man stole your coat. Do I understand that you prefer the charge against him?

Pat.—Well, no, your worship, I prefer the coat, if it's all the same to you.

"Literature is very tiring, isn't it?" said one woman. "Yes," answered the other. "If your book doesn't sell, you are disappointed, and if it does it has to be so shocking that you are embarrassed."

BEWARE OF BLOOD-POISON

Zam-Buk is a Sure Cure

Mr. Jas. Davey, of 786 Ellice Avenue, Winnipeg, says:—"A few months since I was cured of a poisoned finger through the timely use of Zam-Buk.

"I cut a deep gash across the knuckle on the first finger of my right hand in opening a lobster can. I suffered at the time with the soreness and pain, but had no idea it would become a serious wound. However, in about two days I was greatly alarmed, as my whole hand and arm to the elbow became suddenly inflamed, and the finger was much discolored, showing signs of blood-poisoning. The pain was dreadful and I was forced to leave off my work and go home.

"The wound on the knuckle had been poisoned by dust and dirt getting into it. I then decided to try the Zam-Buk treatment, and having first bathed the cut, I applied the healing balm. It soothed the pain almost instantly, and by next day there was a great improvement.

"In a week's time, through perseverance with this wonderful preparation, a complete cure was brought about."

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, scalp sores, abscesses, piles, ringworm, boils, varicose ulcers, running sores, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. It draws all poisonous foulness from a wound or sore and then heals. Use it too, for cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries. Zam-Buk Soap should be used in conjunction to the balm for washing wounds and sore places. Excellent too, for baby's bath.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c tablet. Post free upon receipt of price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Street Through a Church

One of the best known instances of churches with streets through them is that of St. John the Baptist's church in Bristol, England. The church is situated right over the ancient gateway into the city on the Avon, and the towering spire, standing high above the neighboring houses and streets, is a remarkable sight as one surveys it from the roadway below.

ABOUT RIDEAU HALL.

Originally Built in 1838 by Thomas McKay—It is of Nondescript Architecture.

Rideau Hall, Ottawa, where the Duke and Duchess of Connaught have taken up their abode, seems rather a curious building for its purpose until you realize that the purpose has made the building what it is—a plain, large rambling structure of quite nondescript architecture. It is no more incongruous than one might expect, considering that every Governor-General since its first official tenant Lord Monck, has left his mark upon it, enlarging and adapting the house to his own particular requirements.

Still further alterations, we hear, have lately been made, so as to fit it for the occupation of its new master—the first Governor-General of the Dominion connected with our Royal House since the time of the Marquis of Lorne and the Vice-Reine, the Princess Louise. The place is said to be very comfortable, and it is, of course, permeated with countless Canadian-British associations and memories, mostly pleasant.

Some idea of the gradual expansion of Rideau Hall may be gathered from the fact that the original structure consisted of only eleven rooms, exclusive of those in the basement and attic. To-day there are over a hundred, not to speak of numerous buildings in the grounds.

The original house was built in 1838 by Thomas McKay a wealthy and hospitable Scots-Canadian—contractor and Member of Parliament—for his own residence. It was then playfully called "McKay's Castle," and everyone of any note who passed through Ottawa made a point of visiting the host and his wife and his large, merry family, with whom entertaining was a cult. The portico is as McKay left it; the round tower also. It is otherwise transformed completely.

Like all good Scots, the McKays took an immense interest in gardening. It is said indeed, that the grounds have never since been kept so well as in their time. Mr. McKay trimmed the first cedar hedge ever grown in Ottawa, and every single tree in the avenue was planted by his wife.

Athough the grounds may not have been perfectly kept in the days that have followed the Government's taking over of the lease from Mr. McKay in 1865, they certainly have been vastly improved in various ways by successive Governor-Generals. Thus it was our Princess Louise who cut the second avenue through the woods, known as "The Princess's Vista," whence you get a delightful view of Ottawa and the mountains beyond. The finest cricket ground in all Canada, dedicated for ever to the use of the Ottawa Cricket Club is located in a field in front of Rideau Hall.

Added buildings include the lodge, a curious octagonal building of yellow brick, with, as its vis-a-vis, Crichton Lodge, red-roofed and gabled. This used to be the private secretary's house, but he now occupies Rideau Cottage, which, though not so picturesque outwardly, has much internal solidity and comfort. Besides these, the guardhouse, gardener's cottage laundry, stabling, coachhouse (and, I believe, motor garge), conservatory, vinery, iron gates and strong pillars are among latter-day improvements.

The house "nestles among pine trees and cedars on rising ground on the east side of the wild little Rideau River. Its queer chimneys, its old corners and low lines of grey walls may be clearly seen from any point of the opposite shore when the trees are leafless in winter; but in summer only the chimneys and flagstaff are distinguishable." Rideau Hall is named after the river which in turn was called Rideau from the picturesque and curtain-likes falls which mark its juncture with the Ottawa.

The ballroom is the finest in the house. It was built by Lord Dufferin, and was the scene of the famous theatricals which so greatly enlivened society during his period of office. Other evidence of his enterprise are the splendid toboggan slide and curling rink. Lord Lorne built the racquet court, the wing of which comes in well as a supper-room at dances. Princess Louise added the studio, as she needed a quiet spot with a good light where she could paint in peace. She also put up the log hut, which is near the toboggan slide. Lady Marjorie Gordon (now Lady Pentland) took the greatest joy in this hut. It was her "holiday house," in which she did exactly as she liked. That usually took the form of experimenting in all the housewifery arts—cooking, cleaning, even scrubbing the floor. It was Lord Aberdeen who built the chapel, a restful place with its oaken interior, and softly-tinted, diamond-paned windows. The most attractive spot in the house, however, is the Oval Room, which has served for a variety of purposes. Most of the bedrooms are, unfortunately, somewhat small.

The Truth at a Pinch

He was a lawyer, and he decided that his child should follow in his footsteps.

Always remember that good lawyers work hard, my boy," he said. They read thoughtfully, forget nothing, wash their faces before and after every meal, and never speak with their mouths full."

Bobby blinked.

'And do they go to bed when they're told?"

It was papa's turn to blink.

"Yes, my boy, they do," he replied at length. "Lawyers will do anything to win a case."

The Stickleback Legend

The stickleback is one of the species of fish that built nests. There is a legend that a stickleback builds a nest because during the deluge it pulled the town out of the bilge hole of the ark and if it had not been for the hedgehog, who plugged up the leak with his own body, Noah and his sons would have had an exciting time baling out their boat. When Noah found out who had done the deed he ordered as a punishment that the culprit should be compelled each year to build a nest, while other fishes would have an easy time of it.

Unpalatable

The Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon's keen wit was always based on sterling common sense. One day he remarked to one of his sons:

"Can you tell me the reason why the lions didn't eat Daniel?"

"No, sir. What was it?"

"Because the most of him was backbone, and the rest of him was grit."

Mrs. C. S. Sagerser.

Mrs. C. S. Sagerser, 1311 Woodland Ave., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I feel it a duty to you and to others that may be afflicted like myself, to speak for Peruna.

"My trouble first came after la grippe eight or nine years ago, a gathering in my head and neuralgia. I suffered most all the time. My nose, ears and eyes were badly affected for the last two years. I think from your description of internal catarrh that I must have had that also. I suffered very severely.

"Nothing ever relieved me like Peruna. It keeps me from taking cold.

"With the exception of some deafness I am feeling perfectly cured. I am forty-six years old.

"I feel that words are inadequate to express my praise for Peruna."

"No indeed; just a hurrah. Hips are not in fashion."

For Sprains and Bruises.—There is nothing better for sprains and contusions than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It will reduce the swelling that follows a sprain, will cool the inflamed flesh and draw the pain as if by magic. It will take the ache out of a bruise and prevent the flesh from discoloring. It seems as if there was magic in it, so speedily does the injury disappear under treatment.

OLD LADY ALMOST CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

A Remarkable and Convincing Statement of the Success of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the Treatment of the Pain, Itching and Burning of Eczema

"I, the undersigned, cannot give enough praise to the Cuticura Remedies. I had been doctoring for at least a year for eczema on my foot. I had tried doctor after doctor all to no avail. When a young girl I sprained my ankle three different times, paying little or no attention to it, when five years ago a small spot showed upon my left ankle. I was worried and sent for a doctor. He said it was eczema. He drew a small bone from the ankle about the size of a match and about an inch long. The small hole grew to about the size of an apple, and the eczema spread to the knee. The doctors never could heal the sore on the ankle. The whole foot ran water all the time.

"My husband and my sons were up night and day wheeling me from one room to another in the hopes of giving me some relief. I would sit for hours at a time in front of the fireplace hoping for daybreak. The pain was so intense I was almost crazy. In fact, I would lose my reason for hours at a time. One day a friend of mine dropped in to see me. No more had she glanced at my foot than she exclaimed, 'Mrs. Finney, why in the world don't you try the Cuticura Remedies?' Being disgusted with the doctors and their medicines I decided to give the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment a trial. After using them three days that night I slept as sound as a silver dollar [illegible] I awoke in the morning [illegible] the Cuticura Soap and Ointment [illegible] restored to health, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. [illegible] hearty at present." (Signed) Mrs. Julia Finney, [illegible] Mar. 7, 1911.

ANOTHER TRIBUTE TO STAR AD. COLUMNS

A short time ago, Mr. J. H. Dawson advertised in the columns of the Star for the return of a cow that he had lost during the month of June. So confident was Mr. Dawson that he could never find his animal, he did not think it advisable to advertise for it. Being persuaded that it cost little to try, he inserted a small classified ad. and after its first appearance the animal was returned. Such cases are happening with every issue. Try our columns, they bring results.

Within and Without Town

The best program of 1911 will be rendered by the Dixie Jubilee colored troupe on Thursday evening.

Died—At Fabyan, on Thursday, November 16th, Elsie May Woods, aged 11 months. Funeral took place at Wainwright, on Nov. 18.

There will certainly be a packed house on Thursday evening to hear the Colored Entertainment. Their funny jokes will make a decided hit.

Mr. W. P. Hinton, General Passenger Agent for the G. T. P. and R. C. W. Lott, Colonization Agent for the same company, passed through here yesterday, from Vancouver, en route to Winnipeg.

Many complaints have been heard during the past week from local merchants, regarding a car of mixed freight that was tied up at Watrous for several days last week. The cause for the delay is unknown.

New calendars for the coming year are arriving each day from local business men and outside parties. The Wainwright Realty Co. have a neat calendar advertising their business and it has met with general favour. The STAR'S thanks are due for the receipt of one.

The colored troupe are all college graduates of highest honours. They will please you at the Auditorium on Thursday evening.

Musson & Ross have started building the addition to their store and have wisely taken advantage of the mild weather to rush the work to completion. The structure that is being erected is on Second Avenue and when finished will doubtless supply a much-needed necessity.

Everybody is anxiously waiting to hear the Dixie Jubilee entertainers on November 23.

With the many delays in the mails since the late trains have resulted, many complaints have been heard from all quarters. It is reported from many towns along the line that the Boards of Trade will act if the same state of affairs continues.

Dr. McQueen, the well known local dentist, will be at Edgerton for the balance of this week, where he will practise his profession.

TO RENT—Two houses a short distance from the roundhouse, located in South Wainwright to rent at reasonable rates. Good location. Warm houses. Apply, N. R. Dingman.

TO-MORROW NIGHT

Through the efforts of Small Bros., the managers of the local Opera House, an exceptionally high class company of singers has been secured for to-morrow night. Under the direction of J. Cosgrove, the Dixie Jubilee Concert Party will appear in the Auditorium. The company is composed of the highest class of college-bred negro talent, introducing all that goes to make up the best and most original jubilee concert programme.

The programme will consist of original and clever, comic selections, together with lullabies, sweet sentiment songs, choruses, solos, duets and quartettes.

A very large house has already been guaranteed and those, who have not already secured seats should not lose the opportunity of hearing this famous company.

ROOMS TO RENT—Rooms in private house on 4th. Avenue. For particulars apply to,

OFFICE AT THE RED CROSS PHARMACY

The Merchants Bank has added to their fine building here, a large sign that sets off the structure to great effect. The letters run the entire length of the building and are bronzed.

Samples of Christmas greeting cards have been received at the STAR office and many orders have already been handed in. If you have not seen these yet, call in and look them over. They are very artistic and suitable to send your distant friends.

Typhoid fever is now a thing of the past in Wainwright, all the patients having sufficiently recovered as to be out of danger. No new outbreaks have occured for the past three weeks.

V. E. Forster of Camrose, where he has opened up a place of business, was visiting his brother, M. L. Forster, for a few days last week.

Do not forget the date of M. Mecklenburg's periodical visit to Wainwright, SATURDAY DEC. 9th., at the WAINWRIGHT HOTEL. This eye specialist has a long standing reputation as an experienced and reliable man. His charges are moderate and he guarantees satisfaction. adv.

MARRIED—On Tuesday, November 14th., at St. Thomas' parsonage, Frederick William Heard of Edgerton to Agnes Eliza Collins of the same place.

The majority of the striking railway men have secured jobs on the rink and from all reports are not suffering on account of the delay in the settlement of the strike.

A very enjoyable and impromptu dance was given on Friday evening last under the auspices of the Wainwright young men. It was largely attended by both local trippers and people from the adjoining country districts. Although the affair was advertised as being in aid of the local hospital, it was considered advisable to make it an ordinary dance and to hold a grand ball in favor of the hospital sometime during the future. Announcements to this effect will follow at a later date.

SMALL INTEREST IN MUNICIPAL ELECTION

It is surprising to note that but little interest has as yet been displayed in the impending municipal elections. Nominations will take place one week from next Monday and no announcements have as yet been made regarding who will be in the running. Even the three councillors, whose term expires with December 31st., have not expressed whether they will stand or not. It is understood, however, that Mayor Pawling will again be in the field, although no intimation has as yet been made to this effect.

Election day will be held on December 11th. and from present indications, the day will be a quiet one. It would not be at all surprising to see the three councillors elected by acclamation, should they decide to stand. This is also true of the present mayor. In this event, special provision will doubtless be made for Coun. Watson, who is at present confined to the hospital at Edmonton, and who will probably be unable to return to the Board until he has completely recovered.
